Associate membership

Join ICE as an Associate Member (AMICE) and access the people, the thinking and the huge resources of a world class engineering institution.

The Institution of Civil Engineers (ICE) sets the infrastructure agenda and advises policy makers and international bodies on its delivery. ICE also provides the training, qualifications, knowledge and mentoring that allow our 92,000 members to attain the highest professional standards.

Why become an Associate Member of ICE?

From engineers to academics, procurement and legal experts to architects and surveyors, built environment professionals are coming together to create infrastructure for the future.

Better, agile cross-functional teamwork and a greater understanding between allied professions are key to successful project delivery in a rapidly evolving industry.

What does Associate membership of ICE give you?

RECOGNITION

- Using the post-nominal letters AMICE is a mark of distinction, linking you to the world's oldest and foremost civil engineering body
- Demonstrate your professional commitment to understanding and growing your knowledge of the latest industry developments

DEVELOP YOUR SKILLS

- Broaden your understanding of the built environment. ICE is uniquely placed to provide training and learning opportunities that can boost your job performance
- Gain access to a vast array of knowledge from conferences, training, case studies, the world's largest digital engineering library, lectures, webinars and best practice documents

NETWORKING

- Create new opportunities. ICE is an umbrella body for a host of specialisms in the built environment and our members are at the forefront of industry innovation and change. ICE membership offers invaluable opportunities to access this melting pot of ideas and potential partners
- Build business and social contacts. Our events are recognised around the world for their quality, and with members in more than 160 countries, ICE membership can help you reach like-minded professionals. You can also become a part of our ICE LinkedIn group – connecting you instantly to thousands of active professionals wherever you are in the world

CAREER SUCCESS

- Get insights that will help you succeed. Improving your understanding of the role of other professionals in the built environment will help you to manage and lead successful teams, making you a sought after professional
- Raise your profile and shape the debate by contributing to our knowledge products, joining our knowledge and expert panels, the ICE Thinks thought leadership programme, or through speaking at events
