Established in 1818 in London, the Institution of Civil Engineers (ICE) is the first professional engineering body in the world. Since obtaining its Royal Charter in 1828, it has expanded considerably and now has more than 95,000 members across the world.

Event Overview

Topic: How Can NEC Contracts Support Collaboration on Your Project?

This online event will explore the benefits of using NEC contracts to promote collaboration on your projects. Collaboration is key to the success of any project, and the discussion will include how NEC contracts can support this by providing clear and effective communication between all parties involved. Through this event, the attendees will learn from industry experts on how to achieve better outcomes, reduce risks, and resolve disputes more efficiently by using NEC contracts. The event is a must-attend for anyone looking to improve collaboration on their projects.

MS Teams Link will be forwarded to all the registered attendees on Tuesday, prior to the event.

For any specific enquiries regarding ICE membership requirements and processes please contact our ICE Middle East Membership Development Officer, Aurelia Khisaf at aurelia.khisaf@ice.org.uk
